

Before we start, notes pre-globalization

- Spanish royals actively prevented trade with China #why
- Current day, emphasis was placed around those in native American regions who were anti-Spanish, yet a large majority of the individuals who really brought globalization were Spanish

1 | Effects of the HomogenoceneSilver...

- (Most?) Important asset
- Got cheapened as soon as the Americas overflowed with it, leading to lot's of silver problems [\[KB20200822151428\]](#)

Capital MovementOriginal, pre-globalized capitals

- All located within the tropics
 - Beijing
 - Viayanagar (Hindu capital) – Cairo
- Decidedly not western
- Decidedly hot (maybe, but Beijing was definitely not hot #why)

Globalized Capitals

- In the north, mostly
 - New York
 - Chicago
 - Tokyo
 - Manchester
 - London
- Much more westiner
- ...and much colder

Look out!: interesting to see when population drops/booms instead of climbing/falling slowly.

For instance, take Mexico City

- Was really “on top of it”
- But did not experience rapid growth

What tensions and contrasts do you see between the different maps? (Look for where boundaries don't match)
