Gelvin, Chapter 3

- Weakened governmental systems caused “17 century crisis” => whole of the world getting Romanitus
- “Great Inflation” + the “Price Revolution”
 - Governments used bureaucracies to disempower aristocrats
 - #why not silver based inflation
 - Rulers needed ways for rule legitimization => “Routinization of Christma”
 - Finding new means to find new means to find authorities => Could not use expansion to assert authority anymore
 - Leveraged shiny palaces and overcomplicated rituals
 - Claims of why inflation happened:
 - Demographic expansion => Population growth induced
 - More people
 - Post-black-death
 - Dependence aforementioned in and of itself was reason for inflation
 - States spent a large amount of money
 - Kept debasing currencies, causing inflation
 - Resulting in the Vicious Cycle
 - Debasement
 - Governments see debasement, and debase further to recouperate
 - KBhHIST201ProblemsWithSilver Problems with Silver, too!
 - Transition of “WE” => “MWS”
 - 1500s World Empires” => division of world by huge empires

- Possible for several WE to exist (Ottoman, Safavid, Habsbug, China)
- Spread through military conquest or threatening thereof
- Self-sustaining and independent
- Each equivalent to the other #why
 - CLAIM: “no empire was tech. superior to any other. Nor was empire organized in a manner that gave it particular advantage over any other.”
- Late 1500s-now: “world empires =>”modern world system”
 - “Politically fragmented but economically united”
 - Modern world spread influence by bringing outlying districts into a single economic structure
 - Spread and grown through competition, where there are winners and losers
