1 | The Ottomans' Fall

- "Natural consequences of earlier Turkish successes"
- Got Romanitus expanded too much to the point of unmanagability => "Strategical Overextension"
- Switched to an "Iron Fist" management style of crushing dissidents, encouraging the Persians to ally with the Europeans to crush the Ottomans
- Suffered from being centralized, despotic, and severly orthodox
 - · Emperor had to much power
 - · Country became over-conservative
 - · Bureaucracy became too heavy
 - · Heavy internal plundering
 - · High taxes
 - Seizures of property
 - · Depopulated towns
 - · Unorderly soldiers
 - Bribery
