1 | One

How does Conrad relate /define darkness and insanity throughout the novel? Why does Conrad build up to Kurtz so gradually, what perception of Kurtz does Conrad want to portray?

- · Nixie's conclustion
  - · Madnesss is being removed from a place you are used to
    - Does she mean that it causes madness?
    - · says that heads are the main symbol of madness

•

- · Jackson says
  - · That the meeting of kurtz is ironic
  - · Builds up kurtzs, but when they meet him, it's anticlimatic
- · Daniel responds
  - · Talks about marlows changing perception of kurts
  - · Connects back to insanity
    - · nice one
- · Madeline rebuts
  - · kurts was not as expected
  - · but still liked kurts at the end
- Nixie says
  - · About kurtz greed with ivory?
    - not super related
- Jackson responds
  - · breaks out of dillsution, "the horror!"
- · Nixie interjects
  - · Isolating causes kurtz madness
    - · relates back to her original point
  - ties into subcoincuiss
    - · Restates original point
    - hmmmmm
- Jackson
  - · There is nothing at the end
- Madeline
  - About insanity:
    - · conrad uses drums to represent heart beat to make the jungle seem dangerous

- ....
- Daniel
  - · As you travel the heart of darkness, you travel into kurtz mind
    - · is this true? you dont know kurtz mind till near the end
- · Nixes asks
  - · How does conrad define madness?
- · Daniel adds
  - · Mostly about kurtz,
  - · caused by some sort of 'darkness'

2 | Two

How does Conrad relate /define darkness and insanity throughout the novel? Why does Conrad build up to Kurtz so gradually, what perception of Kurtz does Conrad want to portray?

- · Riley explains some context
- · Aime describes
  - dehumanization
  - · objecitifes the woman
    - · beucase shes beutiful physically, marlow has more respect
  - the intended was viewed as emotional and docile
- · Rowan adds
  - · Beuty is inherently primal
    - · stems from necessity
      - this is an intresting point. fits with the "Europe no better" thesis.
- · anoushka
  - · we dont see her often
  - justaposition off...?
    - · hard to hear
  - · strange descriptions of beuty
    - · ah, the justaposition of beuty and savage?
- riley
  - · kurzt is like a cult leader
  - · described similary in some fashions to the natives
  - · sedces his follower, buts gets seduced himself by the heart of darkness
  - takes priority over rational thinking
- · aime says
  - · that marlow is emotinally detached until the end
    - · even when pointing our the horrid things that are happening
- · rowan responds
  - · describes violence to "his people" in much more detail
    - · huge contrast in the descriptions
      - this is proof of racism(ish)! says rowan
        - · framed narritive means that this is weird

3 | Four (I know how to count trust me)

- 1. Is the racism in Heart of Darkness a parody of European racism during colonial times or is it Conrad's inherent racism?
- 2. How did the different people who told Marlow about Kurtz alter his opinion on him, how much did their opinions influence Marlow and why did they hold more/less value?
- · Calder starts
- · is conrad inherently racist
- why do we keep talking about this? this is not related! (not what calder said)
- · Nico says
  - · Conrad is truly racist
    - becuase black people speak once or twice and are dehumanized
    - · its not satire
- · Calder respondes
  - bassicly says it can be a depiction distinc from conrads actual beliefs
    - · hard to distinguis
      - · this is a good point. thx calder
- Isabella
  - · uses the n-word, therefore, is racist!
- kayla
  - pattern of the n-word, therefore, nword isnt parody, therefore, is racist!
  - · an author cannot have a racist protagonist withoutgh being racist
    - uh
- · Nico says
  - · that marlow isnt protrayed as having any flaws, and therfore, conrad is racist!
- · isabella responds
  - actully marlow is painted with flaws
- · kayla adds
  - · conrad is writing about his experience through marlow
    - hmmmm
- · nico says
  - that conrad says that europeans have been dragged down by africa
  - · therfore, he truly is, racist
- · isabella asks
  - · clarifying question
- · calder
  - · europe is infecting africa
  - europe is the heart of darkness
    - oooh, intrestingg
  - · maybe both cus they were infected

- · isabella
  - what
- · nico
  - marlow describes kurtz to the intended not with his actual beliefs but with how kurtz is described to him
  - · flip flops alot
- · kayla disagrees with nico
  - · says that marlow doesnt belive what he said to the intended
  - · did nico say this? he very well may have
