1 | Welcome

Howdy :wave:, welcome to Taproot. Take a look around, either in person or from our handy web portal.

1.1 | Philosophy

Zettelkasten, maybe. But basically, create a repository of knowledge that should be easy to refer back to and effective for relearning things. We strive to create atomic, self contained notes that link to other references. Think a more granular Wikipedia

1.2 | Structure

At the moment, Taproot is organized by the course that each concept falls into. The project was started with Zettelkasten style IDs prefixed with "[KB]", but was soon moved to semantic naming. Some files are named according to the convention outlined here:

- [KBeMetaIndex] @Exr0n
- [KBhMETAindex] @Jemoka

1.3 | Epilogue

Thanks for stopping by!

A "taproot" is a "large, central, and dominant root from which other roots sprout laterally" (Wikipedia). Also, it's a food!

Created by Houjun Liu, Huxley Marvit, Zachary Sayyah, Albert Huang.
